

Melville Douglas Global Growth Fund Limited

USD Global Growth Class

Fund information update at 31 May 2026

What is the fund's objective?

The objective of the Class Fund is to provide long-term capital growth in US Dollar terms by investing in a balanced portfolio of globally diversified equity, fixed income and cash.

What does the fund invest in?

The Class Fund invests in a well-diversified portfolio comprising quoted global equities, global fixed income securities including government and corporate bonds and money market instruments which will maximise investment returns in USD.

What possible risks are associated with this fund?

The risk rating seen below is designed to give an indication of the level of risk, measured by volatility, associated with this specific portfolio. In order to arrive at the specific risk rating of the portfolio in question, Melville Douglas measures the volatility of the fund, in the form of standard deviation, over a three year rolling period, and compares the result to internal risk parameters. Please note that these risk ratings are designed as a guide only.

Cost ratios (annual) including VAT as at 31 March 2026

| | Class B | Class C |
|--------------------------------|------------|------------|
| Based on period from: | 01/04/2023 | 01/04/2023 |
| Total Expense | 1.73% | 1.03% |
| Transaction Costs | 0.00% | 0.00% |
| Total Investment Charge | 1.73% | 1.03% |
| 1 Year Total Expense | 1.73% | 1.03% |

Total Expense (TER): This ratio shows the charges, levies and fees relating to the management of the portfolio and is expressed as a percentage of the average net asset value of the portfolio, calculated over the period shown and annualised to the most recently completed quarter. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER should not be regarded as an indication of future TERs.

Transaction Costs (TC): This ratio shows the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the buying and selling of the fund's underlying assets. TC are a necessary cost in administering the fund and impacts fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER.

Total Investment Charges (TIC): This ratio is simply the sum of the TER and TC, showing the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the investment of the fund. It should be noted that performance figures account for all costs included in the TIC ratio, so you should not deduct the TIC from performance figures, the performance is already net of the TIC.

Fund review

Over the quarter, the fund's return lagged the benchmark. The underperformance was driven primarily by the global equity allocation, while the fund's exposure to fixed income performed in line with benchmark. Overall, asset allocation had a neutral impact during the period.

The funds equity holdings lagged the MSCI All Country World Index as growth markedly trailed value. Value and momentum factors have been outperforming growth and lowrisk factors since late 2025. This reflects a rotation away from longduration and/or capital-light businesses (software, professional services and parts of financials) towards assetheavy sectors that are perceived to be less vulnerable to AI disruption (industrials, power, materials, energy, transportation). Our investment style tends to favour asset-light businesses operating in expanding markets given they typically provide stable and growing free cash flow generation – the necessary ingredients for compound returns. Hence, the recent lag. Energy was the best performing sector over the quarter given the sharp spike in oil prices and having no exposure detracted from our performance. Furthermore, our underweights to consumer staples, real estate and utilities were relative detractors. Emerging markets delivered the strongest regional returns, while the U.S. underperformed, detracting from relative performance given our overweight to the U.S. and limited exposure to emerging markets earlier in the quarter. Stock selection weighed on our performance, particularly within the AI disruption bucket. Our positions in financial services, commercial and professional services, and software were most impacted.

A swift end to the war in Iran would ease extreme inflation concerns, but we still see limited mediumterm downside for longdated government bond yields. The economy remains resilient, inflation is above the Fed's target, and persistent fiscal deficits continue to pressure the long end of the curve. The Fund maintains a broadly neutral duration position in AAA/government bonds, focused mainly in the mediumterm segment of the upwardsloping yield curve. Investment Grade exposure through a liquid ETF remains in line with the benchmark, as credit spreads are still near multiyear lows despite recent riskoff sentiment. The Fund's modest High Yield allocation performed in line with the corporate benchmark this quarter after strong multiyear gains; spreads have widened but remain historically tight, so we await better entry levels. The Fund's overweight U.S. dollar position added value as the currency regained safehaven demand amid rising geopolitical uncertainty.

Market overview

As we close the first quarter of 2026, the global investment landscape has shifted dramatically in only a few weeks. In early February, financial markets were broadly optimistic: inflation was easing across major economies, central banks were expected to begin cutting rates, and fiscal policy in the U.S., Germany, and Japan appeared supportive. Corporate earnings revisions were strengthening, and the global equity rally was increasingly underpinned by improving fundamentals.

That backdrop changed rapidly. The sudden escalation of the war in Iran disrupted supply chains, heightened geopolitical uncertainty, and pushed oil prices sharply higher. This forced markets to reassess the macroeconomic outlook, with the eventual impact largely dependent on the duration of the conflict.

By quarterend, global equities (MSCI ACWI) were down 3.2% after a 7.2% drop in March, while global bonds declined 1.1% for the quarter and 3.1% in March. Emerging markets and most cyclical sectors - excluding energy - bore the brunt of the volatility, while the U.S. equity market and the U.S. dollar benefited.

The first quarter also saw a pronounced rotation in investment styles. Value stocks outperformed both Growth and Quality, supported by the earlier improvement in the global economic outlook and falling rates across most regions. Notably, this trend continued through March despite rising uncertainty, driven largely by strong performance from the Energy sector, a major component of the Value category.

Looking ahead

The sudden shift in global conditions serves as a powerful reminder that diversification, quality, and robust cash flow generation are essential features of any long-term investment strategy. While the first quarter has undeniably been volatile, it has also reinforced the value of maintaining exposure to businesses that can withstand economic shocks, preserve margins, and compound earnings over time. As we navigate the months ahead, we will continue to focus on risk management and thoughtful asset allocation, ensuring that portfolios strike the right balance between protecting capital in the short term and capturing long-term opportunities created by the recent dislocation. The road ahead is uncertain, but uncertainty also gives rise to mispricing, and mispricing can be a gift to disciplined investors. Although the war in Iran has reshaped the immediate outlook for inflation, interest rates, and global growth, its longer-term impact remains uncertain. As negotiations evolve, as supply routes adjust, and as central banks clarify their policy intentions, volatility should ease. Until then, we remain focused on maintaining resilient portfolios that not only weather the storm but stand ready to take advantage of the opportunities that turbulent markets inevitably provide, and as such have maintained our Neutral allocation across Global Equity, Fixed Income and Cash.
