Transaction Costs	0.15%
Total Investment Charge	1.43%

Total Expense (TER): This ratio shows the charges, levies and fees relating to the management of the portfolio and is expressed as a percentage of the average net asset value of the portfolio, calculated over the period shown and annualised to the most recently completed quarter. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER should not be regarded as an indication of future TERs.

Transaction Costs (TC): This ratio shows the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the buying and selling of the fund's underlying assets. TC are a necessary cost in administering the fund and impacts fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER.

Total Investment Charges (TIC): This ratio is simply the sum of the TER and TC, showing the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the investment of the fund. It should be noted that performance figures account for all costs included in the TIC ratio, so you should not deduct the TIC from performance figures, the performance is already net of the TIC.

Fund review

During the second quarter of 2026, the Melville Douglas STANLIB High Alpha Fund outperformed its benchmark with returns over +3%. The fund's best performing stocks being Compagnie Financiere (S), MTN Group and Anheuser-Busch SA and the worst performing stocks being Northam Platinum, Gold Fields and Clicks Group. The exposure to global equities contributed positively to the returns relative to the fund's benchmark.

Market overview

The dominant macroeconomic event during the second quarter of 2026 was the disruption of shipping through the Strait of Hormuz following escalating conflict in the Middle East. The crisis triggered one of the largest oil supply shocks in modern history, disrupting global energy markets and introducing significant uncertainty into the global growth and inflation outlook. Brent crude oil prices surged more than 60% from pre-conflict levels as markets priced in the potential loss of approximately one-fifth of global oil supply.

Global economic growth remained positive during the quarter (MSCI All Country World Index +10.0% over the quarter), while geopolitical risks and trade-related uncertainties contributed to periodic bouts of market volatility. SA equities also experienced significant volatility over the quarter and closed negatively (down -2.4%), although performance varied significantly across sectors.

South African equities weakened during the second quarter of 2026, extending the moderation seen after the strong gains recorded through much of 2025. The FTSE/JSE Capped All Share Index ended June negatively (-3.7% for June 2026), leaving the market down roughly -2.8% year-to-date as resource counters came under pressure, despite relatively supportive domestic fundamentals.

Resources were the primary drag on market performance during the quarter. Precious metals producers and diversified miners experienced profit-taking amid softer commodity prices and concerns around global industrial demand. On the other hand, listed property was among the strongest-performing domestic asset classes during the quarter, benefiting from declining inflation expectations, lower interest-rate expectations and improving confidence in the domestic economic outlook. The sector's strong performance reflected growing confidence in South Africa's domestic recovery story and increased demand for high-yielding assets in a declining rate environment.

Looking ahead

Looking ahead, we remain constructive on South African equities. While global macroeconomic uncertainty and commodity price volatility may continue to drive short-term market fluctuations, the domestic investment case has strengthened. Positive outlook by rating agency, improving consumer conditions, forecasted lower borrowing costs, expected easing inflation and attractive relative valuations should support earnings growth over the medium term. We continue to favour high-quality financials, selected consumer businesses and companies with strong balance sheets and sustainable cash flows, while remaining selective and underweight within the resources sector.
