Fund review

The fund is slightly up in March, but down 2.25% for the quarter. In SA, the FTSE/JSE ALSI and Capped SWIX indices returned +0.0% and +3.8% over the month, and 3.8% and 6.7% for the quarter. Financials were again the main driver over the quarter (+22.3%), and the sector has finally pushed resources out of the top performing position for the rolling 12-month period with a 50.2% return for financials and resources up 32.7%. For the quarter Prosus fell 38.6% and Naspers 32.7%. Other laggards were Mondi down 25% (18% of group EBITDA relates to its Russian plant) and Richemont down 21.6%. The strong oil price performance saw Sasol up 37.1% for the quarter. The domestic financials also helped, with both Standard Bank and FirstRand up 30% and Sanlam up 21.6%. Basic materials were up 20%, with Anglo a touch better than BHP.

Market overview

After two years of strong returns from equity markets volatility set in during the first quarter of 2022 as the outlook for inflation, interest rates and global economic environment have deteriorated. The war in Ukraine coupled with the sanctions imposed on Russia have fuelled inflationary and growth fears as many commodities and most notably the price of natural gas and crude oil soared on renewed supply disruption concerns. As expected, global bond yields adjusted higher as investors started pricing in the reality of higher for longer inflation and a more rapid interest rate tightening cycle. At the same time credit and emerging market sovereign spreads have widened to more 'realistic' levels on growth concerns, leaving yield hungry investors with significant losses. Global bonds have experienced their worst drawdown of -12% (from peak to trough) since 2002. That is significant given how low the starting income yields have been over the same period. In SA, the FTSE/JSE Capped SWIX Index ended the month 1.5% higher. The strong returns relative to Global equity markets (in USD) can be explained by the strengthening ZAR, which benefited from inflows into our capital market as well as a positive Terms of Trade and Current account. Attractive valuations combined with evidence that some of the growth reform initiatives are slowly implemented have lured foreign investors back to SA's investment markets. Russia's exclusion from the MSCI EM Equity index also resulted in a reallocation of funds towards other EM countries which included SA, but this impact was relatively contained. Foreigners' ownership of SA equities has increased from 29% in January to 36%. For the month, domestic focused stocks performed strongly across the board with Financials outperforming. Industrials were dragged down by the poor share price performances from Naspers and Prosus (-15%). Chinese IT names were particularly hard hit as tensions between the US Financials regulator and Chinese reporting authorities intensified. Chinas so called 'support' for Russia did not assist either, as foreigners exited Chinese stocks. Resources lost some ground as Russian tensions seemingly eased, with Gold and PGM shares under pressure - It is perhaps noteworthy to mention that after the strong outperformance from the local bourse over the past year, the FTSE/JSE ALSI's performance over three years (supported by Resources) is now in line with the MSCI ACWI.

Looking ahead

Valuations in SA are attractive and any improvement in sentiment towards SA or an improved growth outlook on the back of growth reforms could result in a re-rating. The war in Ukraine has resulted in higher commodity prices which will provide an underpin to profits of basic materials companies for longer than what was previously expected. Many domestic orientated shares will benefit from a depressed earnings base and should provide support to share prices from current levels. Expected returns (including dividends) remain attractive. Offshore the growth outlook has changed on the back of higher-than-expected inflation, in part fuelled by the war in Ukraine that has resulted in much higher energy and food prices which will have an impact on consumers real disposable income. Supply disruption of commodities such as PGM's, oil, natural gas and manufactured goods pose additional risk to Europe's recovery. Fiscal support in Europe is however expected to offset some of the risks. Central banks have signalled their willingness to use interest rates and quantitative tightening as tools in their arsenal to rein in inflation by reducing excess demand. Although the outlook for economic activity has moderated, it is expected that growth will continue to trend above long-term potential driven by pent up demand, healthy consumer and corporate balance sheets and low levels of unemployment. While monetary policy is expected to tighten, interest rates at current levels remain accommodative.
