Total Expense (TER): This ratio shows the charges, levies and fees relating to the management of the portfolio and is expressed as a percentage of the average net asset value of the portfolio, calculated over the period shown and annualised to the most recently completed quarter. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER should not be regarded as an indication of future TERs.

Transaction Costs (TC): This ratio shows the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the buying and selling of the fund's underlying assets. TC are a necessary cost in administering the fund and impacts fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER.

Total Investment Charges (TIC): This ratio is simply the sum of the TER and TC, showing the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the investment of the fund. It should be noted that performance figures account for all costs included in the TIC ratio, so you should not deduct the TIC from performance figures, the performance is already net of the TIC.

Fund review

During the quarter the fund performed in line with the index, despite this being a volatile quarter.

Market overview

The second quarter of the year was a buoyant quarter for the local bond and currency markets. This buoyancy was at the back of a positive global economic backdrop and signs of improvement in the country's precarious fiscal position with improving terms of trade. However, the outcome of the US Federal Reserves meeting in the middle of June put a damper to this recovery. The US Fed in its last meeting in June turned a bit hawkish with now more members seeing hike in policy rates in the forecast period than was the case in previous meetings.

The SARB in its last meeting in May, whilst unanimously keeping interest rates on hold as was expected, signalled the bottom of the interest rate cycle, pointing out the QPM (quantitative predictive model) now predicts two interest rate hikes in the second half of 2021. The FRA curve in agreement with the QPM is now discounting higher interest rates from the six-month area going forward.

Recent announcements by both the Minister of Public Enterprise and the President on state owned entities were positive on the fiscal consolidation plans. On 11 June 2021, Minister Gordhan announced the sale of government of a majority stake in SAA to a consortium made up of a local jet-leasing company and a private-equity firm. A week later, the President, speaking in Cape Town, announced the intentions to unbundle the National Ports Authority to operate as a standalone business entity of Transnet with its own board and management. The unbundling of this entity will mean that revenue generated by South African ports can be invested in port infrastructure and upgrading facilities.

The country's ports have performed poorly amongst their global peers with South Africa's container ports in a recent report by the World Bank and IHS Markit ranked at the bottom of the list. The Container Port Performance Index considered the total port hours per ship call, which is defined as the time it takes for a ship to unload its cargo when it docks and then departs. The Durban port, the country's largest container handling port ranked 349 out of 351 ports assessed globally. The improvement in operational efficiencies and logistic systems of the country's ports will go a long way in improving the country's global trade competitiveness and performance. This will aid the country's ailing economy with all the benefits associated with a healthy economy.

Looking ahead

The interest rate cutting cycle by the central bank has bottomed and normalisation in interest rates is on the cards. However, we believe that the central bank is no rush to tighten policy rates but as the economy recovers and fiscal matrices improve, the risk of tighter monetary policy increases. We still see a flat policy rate environment in the next 12 months.

The recent announcement to reform South Africa's state-owned companies, such as the unbundling of power utility Eskom, National Ports Authority and new private equity partners for troubled SAA airline, is part of a business-friendly agenda by President Ramaphosa to help kick-start the country's struggling economy and will go a long way in avoiding a fiscal abyss.

At 9,0% we believe bond yields are fairly valued and at current levels (above 9,20%) yields are attractive and offer an opportunity to increase the duration of the fund. Similarly, at 8,50% we believe bonds are expensive. We are incrementally increasing the duration of the fund as buying opportunities arise.
