Total Expense	1.24%
Transaction Costs	0.10%
Total Investment Charge	1.34%
1 Year Total Expense	1.23%

Total Expense (TER): This ratio shows the charges, levies and fees relating to the management of the portfolio and is expressed as a percentage of the average net asset value of the portfolio, calculated over the period shown and annualised to the most recently completed quarter. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER should not be regarded as an indication of future TERs.

Transaction Costs (TC): This ratio shows the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the buying and selling of the fund's underlying assets. TC are a necessary cost in administering the fund and impacts fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER.

Total Investment Charges (TIC): This ratio is simply the sum of the TER and TC, showing the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the investment of the fund. It should be noted that performance figures account for all costs included in the TIC ratio, so you should not deduct the TIC from performance figures, the performance is already net of the TIC.

Fund review

Q2 of 2023 continued the fund's strong momentum, up 3.4% in Q2, ahead of the peer group and benchmark (2.9%). The 6-month number is 8.5%, up against the benchmark and peers (7.4%). The 1-year return of 14.9% (against benchmark of 14.7%) is a welcome recovery from the lower returns investors have got used to. The ZAR weakened 5.8% against the USD for the quarter, which boosted our offshore returns. The Global Equity fund returned 13.3% in the quarter, but domestic equity was very subdued due to the May sell off. The MD Global Equity Fund for Q2 2023 is up 6.13% versus the benchmark of 6.18% (in USD). Over a rolling 12-month period we are nicely ahead relative to the benchmark with the fund outperforming by 1.90%. FirstRand bucked this trend, up 13.4% for the quarter as investors rewarded its quality. Richemont rose 13% on currency and general strength in global luxury goods on the China reopening. The pain for the quarter was largely in resource share, which are usually good ZAR hedges, but were sold off on global growth concerns. The domestic bond overweight hurt in May but recovered sharply in June. For the quarter bonds are down 1.3%.

Market overview

Global equity markets have not disappointed this year. At the end of June, the MSCI ACWI returned 13.9% for the calendar year and the global equity index was up over 20% since the market bottomed in October 2022. The performance is slightly surprising given that the interest rates have not yet peaked, and central banks have once again turned more hawkish in their guidance. The outlook for the global economy and corporate profit growth however remains lacklustre after a period of stronger than expected growth. Admittedly, headline inflation has fallen sharply as energy, metal and soft commodity prices are significantly lower than a year ago, but core inflation remained stickier given strong employment markets supporting services-driven businesses and the housing market. Lower inflation if sustained, does provide a glimmer of hope that the end of the monetary tightening cycle is in sight and that policy interest rates could be materially lower next year.

The strong returns from global equities are attributed to a significant rerating in valuations across the 10 largest mega cap tech stocks. The S&P 500 index returned 16.9% this year of which c.13.3% was attributable to the mega cap stocks.

After a dismal May, SA assets bounced back in June. Overall, the performance from the South African equity market has been disappointing this year, a reflection of negative earnings revisions. After a strong start to the year, returns dwindled as Resources (ex-gold) sold off on growth concerns and lower commodity prices given China's softer than expected economic recovery. The weak currency coupled with a strong performance from Richemont, Bidcorp, Bidvest, and NPN/PRX contributed to the strong returns from the Industrial index (+17.5%). Financials (+6.7%), was the next best performing sector underpinned by strong earnings growth and attractive valuations. Resources (-10.5%), the worst performing sector dragged down by PGMs.

Looking ahead

In conclusion, financial market expectations continue to be discounting, prematurely in our view, a series of US interest rate cuts in the second half of the year. We believe the path for interest rates will primarily be set by the outlook for inflation and, with core inflation proving to be stubbornly high in the short-term, central banks are unlikely to be in a hurry to ease tight monetary conditions by lowering interest rates too early. As such we would not be surprised to see some volatility in asset prices in the months ahead as the lagged effects of unusually steep tightening affect growth momentum and demand. We continue to actively monitor the key drivers of asset class returns, which include valuations, the outlook for inflation, interest rates, the change in the direction of leading economic indicators and developments in employment. We stand ready to change tack as the environment dictates and although we believe that investors should look forward to a year of improved investment returns in response to numerous factors – lower starting valuations, declining inflation, a peaking interest rate cycle, defensive positioning by market participants – for now, we remain prudently positioned; underweight to equities, neutral to fixed income and overweight cash plus.
