Total Investment Charge	0.70%

Total Expense (TER): This ratio shows the charges, levies and fees relating to the management of the portfolio and is expressed as a percentage of the average net asset value of the portfolio, calculated over the period shown and annualised to the most recently completed quarter. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a low TER imply a good return. The current TER should not be regarded as an indication of future TERs.

Transaction Costs (TC): This ratio shows the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the buying and selling of the fund's underlying assets. TC are a necessary cost in administering the fund and impacts fund returns. It should not be considered in isolation as returns may be impacted by many other factors over time including market returns, the type of fund, investment decisions of the investment manager and the TER.

Total Investment Charges (TIC): This ratio is simply the sum of the TER and TC, showing the percentage of the value of the fund incurred as costs relating to the investment of the fund. It should be noted that performance figures account for all costs included in the TIC ratio, so you should not deduct the TIC from performance figures, the performance is already net of the TIC.

Fund review

After the February Budget revealed the government's funding strategy, which will see issuances increase in the 7-12-year area of the curve, we restructured the sector exposures in the fund, shortening exposure to this area, as we believe it will underperform. However, the fund retains a long position in the ultra-long end of the yield curve. During the quarter the fund performed slightly behind its benchmark because of the restructuring but we expect this will deliver benefits in the long run.

Market overview

The first quarter of the year was very volatile, with various risk events. The SARB started the year with a very dovish statement and benign inflation outlook in its January meeting and again in its last meeting at the end of March. In both meetings the bank left rates unchanged at 6.75%. President Cyril Ramaphosa, in his State of the Nation address in early February, outlined bold plans to boost the economy and deal with endemic state graft. He also promised to tackle governance issues at most state-owned enterprises, whose many applications for bail-outs have become a drain on the fiscus. This was followed by an announcement from the Minister of Finance in his Budget speech, amongst other big announcements, that electricity utility, Eskom, would be unbundled.

In his Budget speech, Minister Mboweni outlined a financial rescue package for Eskom amounting to R69 billion over the next three financial years. This rescue package would come with strict conditions, one of which was that Eskom has to appoint a Chief Reorganisation Officer to oversee its breakdown into three business units. The minister emphasised that the debt incurred by the utility would not be inherited by government and Eskom would be responsible for its repayment.

Local markets were in suspense at the end of March, awaiting Moody's rating decision. In the end, there was no action at all. March was good for most asset classes despite the electricity blackouts earlier in the month. Jittery global markets did not help generate inflows into the local market, and the rand ended the month 3.1% weaker against the US dollar.

Looking ahead

Given Moody's credit opinion following the March review, we believe SA will keep its investment grade status at least until the next scheduled review date on 1 November 2019. We also believe, given the SARB's benign inflation outlook and the US Fed's dovish approach to interest rates, that SARB will keep interest rates on hold for the rest of 2019.

We believe bond yields at 8.50% are fairly valued and at 8% they are expensive, while above 9% they are attractive. We will buy bonds above 9% and go long duration relative to the benchmark, while at 8.50% and below we will remain duration-neutral relative to the index. Our strategy is to trade a 100% -110% duration range relative to the benchmark.
